Abstract

Wireless sensor networks (WSN's) are going to replace old mode of information collection in various area like medical, industry, communication. In this paper authors propose a new Ultra stable Threshold sensitive election protocol (USEP), which is a reactive routing protocol using five level heterogeneity. Reactive networks are fast in response then proactive network. Here protocol has been tested for variation in temperature sensing application.

References

- Smaragdakis, Matta, Bestavros,"SEP: A Stable El election Protocol for clustered
- Femi A. Aderohunmu, Jeremiah D. Deng. " An Enhanced Stable Election Protocol (SEP) for Clustered Heterogeneous WSN. " Department of Information Science, University of Otago, New Zealand.

Index Terms

Computer Science
Wireless

Keywords

WSN  SEP  LEACH  TEEN  Cluster.