Abstract

With the telecommunication traffic increasing each year, there is a need for developing a communication system which is more cost efficient. In this paper we have compared conventional telephone systems to VoIP communication and explored the possibility of replacing all conventional telephones using VoIP, the constraints faced by the same and its solutions.

References

Index Terms
Electronics
Communication Systems

Key words
VoIP
Mobile stations (MS)
Base stations (BS)
Mobile switching centre (MSC)