Abstract

To date, there is a remarkable transformation of the economy into service system to facilitate collaboration between customers and service providers, and also to create value through interconnected service enterprises. This paper introduces a literature review on the concepts of service science, service system, and SSME. It describes a service system framework developed by Sophrer and applied it to a university Blackboard system.

References

design (SSMED): Outline & references. The future of services: Trends and perspectives, 1, 232.

Joint degrees in e-learning systems: a web services approach. In Collaborative Computing:
Conference on (pp. 1-5). IEEE.

Communications of the ACM, 49(7), 35-40.

services marketing. The Journal of Marketing, 33-46.

service-dominant logic. In Otago Forum (Vol. 2, pp. 4-18).

Service Science (JSS), 2(2), 35-52.

13. Lyons, K., & Tracy, S. (2013). Characterizing organizations as service systems. Human Factors and Ergonomics in Manufacturing & Service Industries, 23(1), 19-27.

PAPER.

system is the basic abstraction of service science. In Hawaii International Conference on System Sciences, Proceedings of the 41st Annual(pp. 104-104). IEEE.

faculty member's perceptions and existing obstacles. International Interdisciplinary Journal of service-dominant logic, systems thinking, and service design. In Highlights in service research.

Factors and Ergonomics in Manufacturing & Service Industries, 23(1), 28-36.

Retrieved March 15, 2015

service systems. Computer, (1), 71-77.

Index Terms

Computer Science
Information Sciences

Keywords

Service science, SSME, services, service systems, web services, Blackboard system.