Abstract

Context-awareness is considered as an enabling technology and a rich area of application. This paper aims in monitoring and reporting critical health conditions of a patient who is suffering from brain tumor. We have built our ontology starting from knowledge gathering of data and reasoning to identify the health condition of the patient. So this has led to move towards to build an abstract framework for context-aware applications

Reference

Index Terms

Computer Science Biomedical
Key words

Context-aware health care ontology patient monitoring rule-based systems.