Abstract

With the recent advances in the computing technology, many recognition tasks have become automated. Character Recognition maps a matrix of pixels into characters and words. Recently, artificial neural network theories have shown good capabilities in performing character recognition. In this paper, the application of neural networks in recognizing characters from a printed script is explored. Contrast to traditional methods of generalizing the character set, a highly specific character set is trained for each type. This can be termed as targeted character recognition.

References

Application of Neural Networks in Character Recognition

- Sameeksha Barve. "Optical Character Recognition Using Artificial Neural Network."
- Anuja P. Nagare. "License Plate Character Recognition System using Neural Network."
- S. N. Sivanandam, S. Sumathi and S. N. Deepa. "Introduction to Neural Networks using MATLAB."
- Li, Fuliang and Gao, Shuangxi. "Character Recognition System Based on Back-propagation Neural Network."
- Yingqiao Shi, Wenbing Fan, Guodong Shi. "The Research of Printed Character Recognition based on Neural Network."
- Srinivasan, B and Mani, N. "Application of artificial neural network model for optical character recognition."

Index Terms

Computer Science          Artificial Intelligence

Keywords

Neural Networks  Character Recognition  Back Propagation