Abstract

Stream Ciphers are one of the most important cryptographic techniques for data security due to its efficiency in terms of resources and speed. This study aims to provide a comprehensive survey that summarizes the existing cryptanalysis techniques for stream ciphers. It will also facilitate the security analysis of the existing stream ciphers and provide an opportunity to understand the requirements for developing a secure and efficient stream cipher design.

References

- P. Kocher, J. Jaffe and B. Jun, "Differential Power Analysis", in the

- T. Siegenthaler. "Design of Combiners to Prevent Divide and Conquer..."

Index Terms

Computer Science

Security

Keywords
Stream Cipher
Cryptography
Cryptanalysis
Cryptanalysis Techniques