Abstract

This research aims to provide intelligent tool to predict incubator Length of Stay (LOS) of infants in Egypt and USA, in addition to define factors affecting Length of Stay (LOS) of preterm infants and their severity of impact. This study has relied on data collected from both Egypt and US, to compare LOS's driving factors and the accuracy of LOS prediction in both countries. The obtained results indicated that accurate and early diagnosis may speed up treatment and thus reduce length of stay.

References

Applying Data Mining Technique for Predicting Incubator Length of Stay in Egypt and USA

- EGNN, &quot;Dataset Manual,&quot; EGNN, Cairo, 2010.
- EGNN, &quot;28 Day/Discharge Form,&quot; EGNN, Cairo, 2010.
- R. Haberstroh, Oracle® Data Mining Tutorial for Oracle Data Mining 11g Release 1, Oracle, 2008.
- J. Zurada and S. Lonial, &quot;Comparison Of The Performance Of Several Data Mining Methods For Bad Debt Recovery In The Healthcare Industry,&quot; The Journal of Applied Business Research, vol. 21, no. 2, Spring 2005.

Index Terms

Computer Science
Information Sciences

Keywords
Length of Stay  Data Mining  Regression  Incubator  Premature