Abstract

Function point analysis is a standard method to measure the functional size of software. The objective of this paper is to estimate the size of each requirement of Institute Examination System. For the elicitation of software requirements we have used goal oriented approach.
References

- Pressman, R. S., 2001. Software Engineering. A Practitioner’s Approach,

Index Terms

Computer Science

Information Science

Keywords

Function Point Analysis Institute Examination System.